

Prelude:

The Department of Economics at the University of Mosul, one of the leading scientific departments at the level of Iraq and the Arab world, has passed since its inception many of the developments coinciding with the digital economy, information technology and modernity in the global economy.

Establishment and establishment:

The Department of Economics was established in 1966-1967 'within the Faculty of Arts / University of Mosul and graduated the first batch in 1969 - 1970 and the following year followed the Faculty of Management and Economics at the University of Mustansiriya and then the Faculty of Management and Economics at the University of Mosul in 1974-1975, the Department is granted a doctorate The Department comprises the morning and evening studies, and has started to provide leading economic staff for the Bachelor and Master Campaigns since 1977, the PhD in 1987 and the Higher Diploma in 2010. The Department of Economics currently includes "33 teachers" specializing in economics from PhD and MA holders during the academic year 2018-2019. Number of faculty members Title Professor 3 Assistant Professor 8 As a teacher 17 As an assistant teacher 3

Vision:

The Department of Economics strives "with its scientific titles and human potential to be distinguished in its specialization and become a pillar in higher education, scientific research and community service through the provision of educational, research, consultancy and training services, so as to achieve excellence for its graduates in the light of local and global competition and to meet the needs of the market the work.

Objectives:

The Department of Economics seeks to achieve a number of objectives, the most important of which are:

1. Prepare specializations in various fields of economy with a high level of knowledge, and sustain the provision of teaching cadres in Iraqi universities and institutes and teachers of economic subjects in the Ministry of Education in line with scientific, technological and digital progress.

2. Developing the skills of scientific research and financial and economic planning for the students of the department and in line with the labor market.

3. Contribute to the service of the community and the development of the surrounding environment through the provision of economic consultations and the establishment of training courses for all employees of government departments as well as the private sector.

4. Opening new horizons for the labor market in the fields of teaching, planning, banking and economic journalism.

5. Preparation of high caliber cadres in the planning and implementation, through the granting of a high diploma in feasibility studies and evaluation of the efficiency of performance of economic projects, enabling these experiences to contribute to the process of development and economic growth.

the message:

The Department of Economics should be one of the distinctive departments in the field of education, training, employment, scientific research and community service in the economic, commercial and planning fields at the local and regional levels in order to contribute to the achievement of comprehensive development and in line with the Iraqi labor market. In addition to conducting studies to evaluate the performance and economic feasibility of projects established and new in the province of Nineveh.