

Your task would be to meet with a small group of students online and:

- Think about how your field of expertise can contribute to solve problems related to the employment crisis.
- Identify a topic that would be suitable to discuss and apply to concrete solutions with students from different backgrounds.
- Moderate and guide a small group of students over 4 weeks to develop one applicable idea to be presented at the final conference, that may contribute to overcome employment problems and will be of benefit for the society.

Your student workshop can be held in Arabic or English.

Become a lecturer in the RESI-Student-Conference

Dear Colleagues,

For our online student conference “Let’s reflect on employment crisis in Iraq” which will be held between 22. May and 19. June of 2021 we need your help.

Please, if possible apply as a team of two lecturers with a small abstract of a concept for your working group. One of you should hold a PhD and at least one be a good English speaker.

If you want to be part in the greatest online event in the history of our programme, apply here:
