Read the passage

Last summer, Ali decided to spend his holiday in a small village near the mountains. He wanted to relax and enjoy nature, so he left the busy city early in the morning. He packed his clothes, took his camera, and said goodbye to his family.

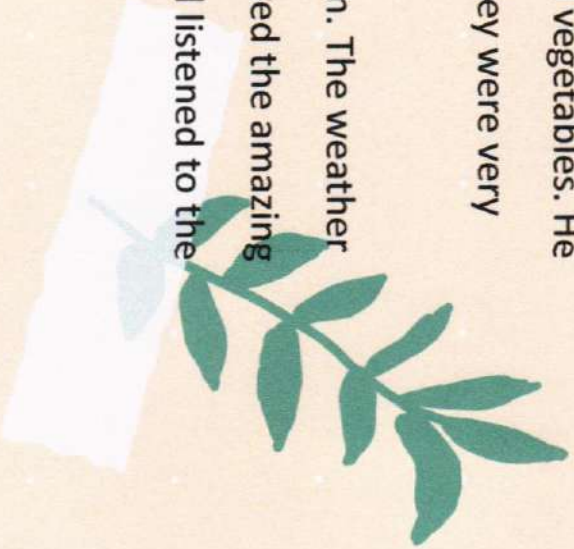

Ali traveled by train for three hours. During the journey, he looked out of the window and watched the beautiful landscapes. He saw green fields, rivers, and small houses. When he arrived at the village, an old friend named Hassan met him at the station. Hassan was very happy to see Ali after many years.

On the first day, Ali rested for a few hours, then he went for a walk around the village. He visited a local market where people sold fresh fruits and vegetables. He bought some apples and oranges, and he talked to the villagers. They were very kind and friendly.

The next day, Ali and Hassan woke up early and climbed a mountain. The weather was cool, and the air was fresh. They took many pictures and enjoyed the amazing view from the top. After that, they had lunch near a small river and listened to the sound of water.

In the evening, they returned home and prepared dinner together. They cooked traditional food and shared stories about their childhood. At night, Ali felt peaceful and happy. He slept well and dreamed about the beautiful places he visited.

After one week, Ali returned to the city. He felt sad to leave the village, but he was grateful for the wonderful experience. He promised Hassan that he would visit again soon.
