The University has a policy NOT to condone "near-pass fails" so the only adjustment to marks awarded by the original marker(s) will be the automatic rounding outlined above.

The cumulative grade point average (GPA) is calculated by summing the grades for each credit unit multiplied by its corresponding credit hours (ECTS), then dividing the sum by the total number of credit hours in the program.

:(GPA for a Bachelor of Science in Marketing Management (four years

$$\text{GPA} = [(\text{Grade of first unit} \times \text{number of credit hours}) + (\text{Grade of second unit} \times \text{number of credit hours}) + \dots] / 240$$
