Department of French Language

Vision, Mission, and Objectives of the Department

Vision

The Department of French aspires to achieve leadership and excellence in education, scientific research, knowledge production and dissemination, and community service. It seeks to attain a distinguished position among French language departments at the national, regional, and international levels. The Department is committed to adopting the latest developments in artificial intelligence to enhance the teaching and learning of languages, while promoting the principles of green education and sustainability through environmentally responsible educational practices, the efficient use of resources, and digital transformation. These efforts contribute to the achievement of the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) and to the preparation of graduates who possess academic excellence, environmental awareness, and the competencies required to meet future challenges.

Mission

The Department of French is committed to providing high-quality academic programs in French language, literature, linguistics, and translation in accordance with internationally recognized academic standards, sustainable development principles, and the effective integration of artificial intelligence. The Department aims to prepare competent graduates capable of contributing to the scientific, cultural, economic, and social development of society while upholding ethical, professional, and humanitarian values, supporting human rights and women's rights, and promoting intercultural communication through the French language. The Department is equally committed to preserving cultural heritage, making optimal use of modern technologies, producing high-quality research that advances the French language and its related disciplines, and providing academic consultation and professional expertise to enhance the performance of educational and community institutions, particularly in the fields of French language education, translation, and artificial intelligence applications.

Objectives

1. To recruit and retain academically and professionally qualified faculty members in the fields of French language, literature, linguistics, and translation in accordance with quality assurance and accreditation standards.
2. To continuously develop undergraduate and postgraduate curricula in line with contemporary advances in knowledge, pedagogy, technology, artificial intelligence, green education, and sustainable development.
3. To foster ethical, national, and humanitarian values among students while promoting cooperation, social responsibility, critical thinking, and lifelong learning.
4. To strengthen community engagement through sustainable partnerships with public and private institutions by providing scientific consultations, professional development programs, and specialized services in the fields of French language, translation, and artificial intelligence.
