War of the Suns II

Digital World

At Digital World we proudly design the most popular games in the world! We are excited every day by the great feedback we get from our favourite people: our game-playing customers. You can play our award-winning games on all the major computer operating systems, including Windows and Mac OS. Many of them are also available for Apple iOS and Android. Our wonderful staff started developing games in 2005 and continue to work on new, highly entertaining products. We expect to launch the next version of our biggest game, War of the Suns, next month.

Which would you prefer to work for?
Why?

Listening:

CD 04 IT2

Complete this conversation between two people from different IT companies using the words in brackets.

H.W.

A: So _____ (your company)?

B: Well, we mostly develop apps for Apple and Android devices- iPhones, that kind of thing.

A: And _____ (your customers)?

B: Mm ... they could be anyone, really. For example, many are companies, wanting an app to show their products. We also do a lot of work for educational organizations. They often want apps to help people learn something.

A: _____ (produce any hardware)?

B: No, that's a very different field. All our products are software. But we do work closely with hardware manufacturers to make sure our software works well.

A: And _____ (future plans)?

B: Good question! We have a product launch tomorrow night. _____ (want/come)?

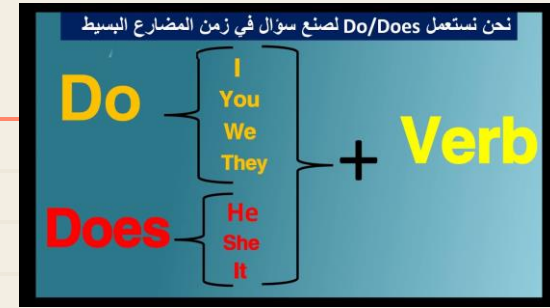

Speaking

H.W.

What is a product launch? Why are product launches a good idea?

Present simple questions

To form present simple questions, we use do/does + subject + main verb. If there is a question word (who, what, when, where, how, ... etc.), it always comes at the beginning.

Does this software work on iPhones?

How often do you update the software?

For Yes/No questions (questions we can answer with 'yes' or 'no'), we use rising intonation (↑).
For questions that begin with a question word, we use falling intonation (↓).

Do you work with small companies? (↑)

How do I use this software? (↓)
