Knowledge and its Role in Enhancing Security Awareness is the Subject of Regional Studies Center's Seminar

Regional Studies Center held a seminar by Dr. "Fares Turkey Al-Jubouri" entitled "Knowledge and its role in enhancing security awareness", in the presence of the Center's researchers and employees, on December 29, 2021.

Al-Jubouri said that the topic aims to clarify the role that sound education, mature culture, and real knowledge can play in upgrading societies and maintaining their security and stability.

Al-Jubouri added that the axes of the seminar discussed the concept and types of knowledge, how to acquire it, and the role of the educational sector in consolidating it. The issue of security in all its forms, including societal security, was also addressed. which immunizes societies against extremist ideas and visions and its role in combating and eliminating them. The seminar then moved to tackle the idea of extremism, how it arises and the reasons behind it, what are the characteristics of the society producing it, and finally the structure of extremism and its nutrients were shed light on. Moreover, touched on the role of knowledge and education in dismantling this structure and drying up those nutrients, leading to the creation of a society that expels the ideas of extremism, hatred, racism, abolition, and entrenchment against the different other.

Regional Studies Center Holds a Seminar on Iraq's Oil and its Future

Regional Studies Center held a seminar by Dr. "Abdul-Razzaq Khalaf Al-Taie" for his research entitled "The Political and Economic Weight of Iraq's Oil and its Future", in the presence of the Center's researchers, on December 22, 2021.

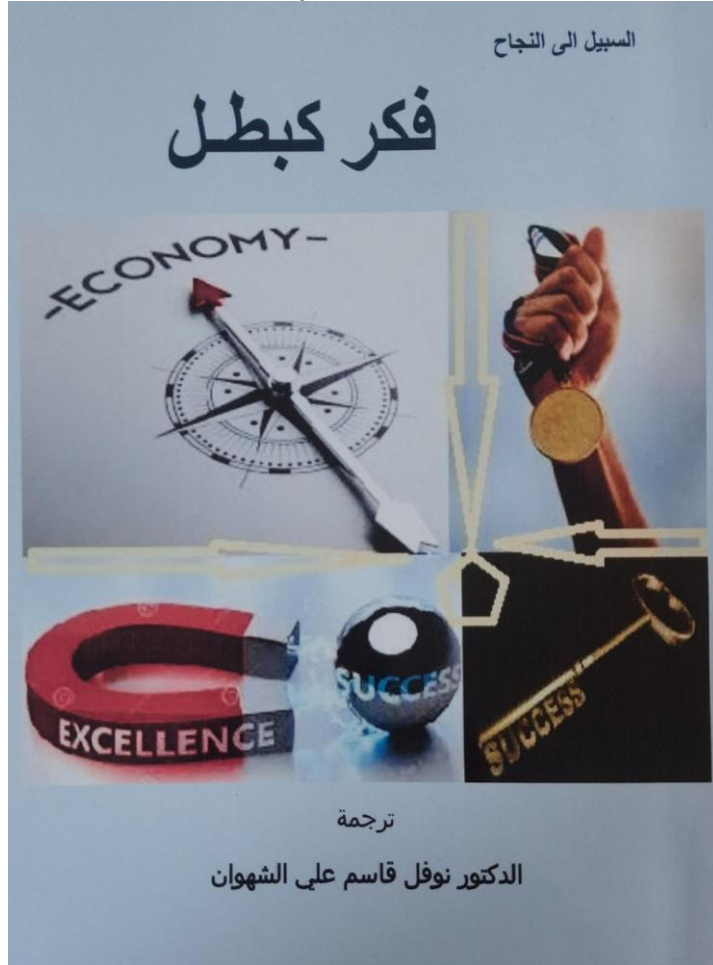

Al-Taie said that the implication of the research stems from the paramount importance that oil represents in the reality and future of Iraq as it is the main source of national income, especially after the decline of other economic sectors.

The "researcher" indicated that the research aims to know the political impact of Iraqi oil internally and externally, and the influence of oil revenues on economic and social development; moreover, knowing the contributions and quantity of Iraqi oil in the global oil market.

The researcher added that the research was divided into four sections, the first one reviewed the amount of oil reserves and their distribution in the Iraqi governorates, production, and export capacity. The second section discussed the political dimension of Iraqi oil internally and externally, while the third reveals the effect of oil revenues on the Iraqi economy and society, whereas the fourth one takes a forward look at the prospects of oil in various fields of economic and social development.

A New Book by an Academic at Regional Studies Center Titled "The Way to Success"

A new book has been issued entitled (The Way to Success.. Think Like a Champion: Informal Education in Business and Life), translated by Dr. Nawfal Qassim Al-Shahwan, Head of the Department of Economic and Social Studies at Regional Studies Center at Mosul University.

The book is of a large size, comprising (204) pages, printed by Dar Al-Qimma for printing and publishing; Mosul-Iraq; it has had the (ISBN): International Standard Book Number 978-9922-21—083-4:

<https://images.app.goo.gl/ghFbbE4p9XQefQ4u5>

Al-Shahwan explained that the book is an intellectual sport for developing strong administrative leadership in directing ideas in positive ways; the heroic thinking is a tangible tool that is described by the ease of use that allows the mind to work for its owner instead of being shaped by behaviors that act against it. It is also a sport that gives daily prompts the advantage of inspiring conveyance in a simple framework to build the awareness one needs to embrace new ideas and uninhibited insights and continue to practice adopting "mental ideals". The exerciser needs to win from the inside out. This method provides a great way to enhance mental skills to enjoy the best way of life.

The "translator" concluded that the book aims to provide lessons beyond the academy in administrative leadership for business and for practical and entrepreneurial life through excerpts and experiences that provide business managers, departments, and senior management with tips of real value.

A Seminar by Regional Studies Center on the US Central Command in the Arab Gulf States

Regional Studies Center held a seminar by Dr. Mithaq Khairallah Jalloud for his research titled “The US Central Command in the Arab Gulf States” in the presence of the Center’s researchers, on Wednesday, December 1, 2021.

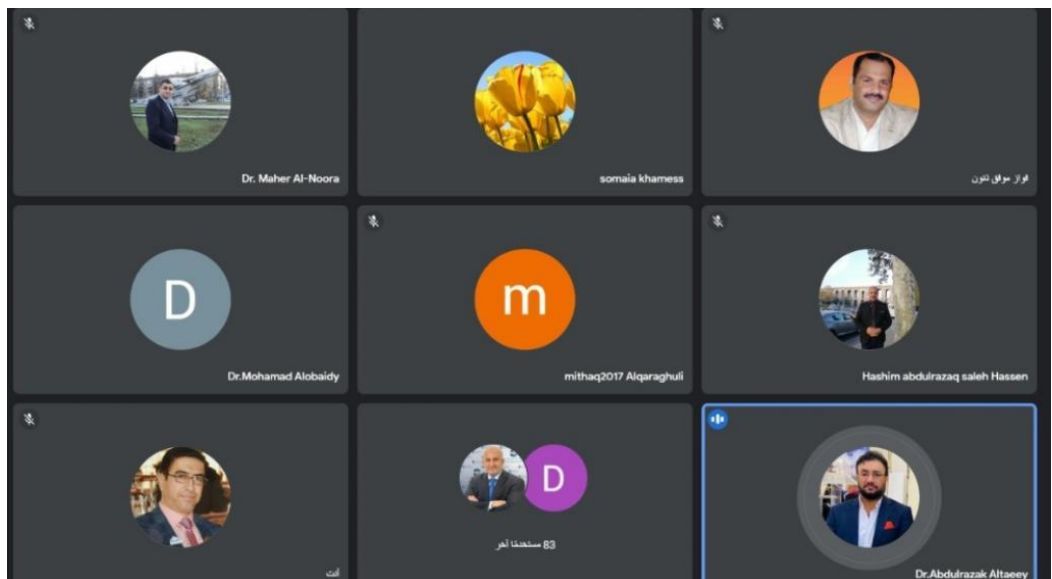

Jalloud indicated that the research aims to describe the spread of the American Central Command forces in the Arab Gulf region due to the paramount importance this region enjoys, especially at the security level, and the implications of this spread at the strategic level.

The researcher added that the research was divided into four sections, the first of which included the historical background for the establishment of this leadership, which is one of the nine American bases that represent a new form of control of the great powers over the region in agreement with the leaders of those countries. The second topic touched on the American bases in Saudi Arabia, Bahrain, and Oman. The third topic sheds light on the bases in Kuwait and the UAE. Finally, the fourth topic discussed the US bases in Qatar.

A Symposium by Regional Studies Center on the American Withdrawal from Afghanistan and its Impact on the Middle East

Under the patronage of Prof. Dr. Qusay Kamal Al-Din Al-Ahmadi, President of the University of Mosul, the Department of Political and Strategic Studies at Regional Studies Center held the electronic scientific symposium titled (the American withdrawal from Afghanistan and its impact on the Middle East), on November 28, 2021, with the participation of a group of professors and researchers specialized in regional and international affairs from outside and inside Iraq.

The objective of the symposium is to describe and analyze the dimensions of the United States withdrawal from Afghanistan after two decades of the American occupation of this country after it was unable to end the influence of the Taliban movement that regained power. Hence, this event must have its effects that will cast a shadow sooner or later on the Middle East.

The symposium included a discussion and analysis of the following topics: Reasons and motives for the American withdrawal from Afghanistan: force trap. The American withdrawal from Afghanistan: a change in the American military strategy or a phased turnover. The United States of America and the credibility of its alliances in the Middle East after the withdrawal from Afghanistan. The future of the US military presence in Iraq after the withdrawal from Afghanistan. The American withdrawal from Afghanistan and its impact on the Arab Gulf states. Russia's opportunity to increase its influence in Afghanistan after the American withdrawal. A reading of Iran's position on the American withdrawal from Afghanistan. The impact of the American withdrawal from Afghanistan on the Turkish policy towards the Central Asian republics.

- Regional Studies Center Holds a Seminar on the Development of

Women's Conditions in Iran

Regional Studies Center held a seminar by Dr. "Mohammad Abdul-Rahman Al-Obaidi" for his research entitled "The Development of Women's Conditions in Iran 1925-1979" in the presence of the Center's researchers on Wednesday 17 November 2021.

Al-Obaidi said that the importance of the research lies in trying to present a new addition to the field of historical studies dealing with the conditions of women in Iran during the monarchy (the rule of the Pahlavi dynasty) and researching the political, economic, social, and cultural aspects that witnessed the activities of Iranian women.

The "researcher" indicated that the research aims to study the conditions of women in Iran and their activities in various fields and to monitor the most prominent changes in women's life in Iran during 1925-1979.

The "researcher" emphasized that the research was divided into four central points, the first of which dealt with the development of the conditions of Iranian women on the cultural side. While the second studied the social aspect. As for the third one, it touched on the development of Iranian women's activity in the economic field. Finally, the fourth central point, which included the political aspect.

- A New Book by the Director of Regional Studies Center Entitled
"Turkey's Multiple Partnership"

A new book by the Director of Regional Studies Center, Dr. Luqman Omar Al-Nuaimi, entitled "Turkey's Multiple Partnership: A Study in Turkey's International Relations after the Cold War (1991-2018): The United States, the European Union, the Russian Federation) has been issued recently by Dar Academic for Publishing & Distribution Co./ Amman. - Jordan, first edition 2021, which is large and contains (480) pages.

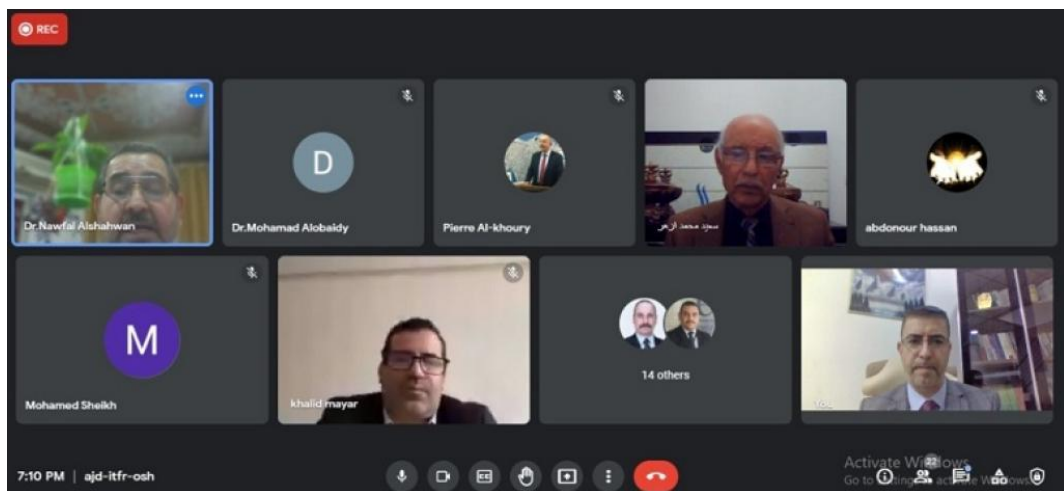

Al-Naimi said that the book aims to study Turkey's international relations with the United States of America, the European Union, and the Russian Federation from the end of the Cold War in 1991 until 2018, in the political, economic, and military fields.

The author pointed out that the importance of the book stems from being an attempt to shed light on the details of Turkey's relations with these three world powers in various fields, and whether these relations in their current form amount to the level of a multi-dimensional and strategic partnership and how Turkey was able to balance between these multiple strategic partnerships and maintaining their durability despite the occurrence of tension and coldness periods in its relations with these powers as a result of many factors and regional and international crises that happened during this time.

Al-Nuaimi added that the book contained three main chapters, the first one included "Turkey and the United States of America." While the second chapter dealt with the subject of "Turkey and the European Union". The third chapter discussed "Turkey and the Russian Federation". The book ends with a conclusion that includes a summary of the most important outcomes and recommendations.

Regional Studies Journal Becomes Part of DOAJ

In an important step towards entering the global containers of international journals of high quality and serenity, "Regional Studies Journal " issued by Regional Studies Center at the University of Mosul has been indexed within the Directory of Open Access Journals (DOAJ). It is an online index that allows its visitors to browse the database dedicated to detailed data or what is known as (Metadata), which includes data and information of published research such as the title of the research, the name of the researcher, summaries, and keywords. It is worth noting that the (DOAJ) index was established in 2003 at Lund University in Sweden and included at the beginning of its establishment (300) open-access refereed scientific journals and now contains more than (16000) journals. It is an independent and non-profit organization that provides services through the support provided by various international institutions.

- An Academic Publishes a Book About Sultan Abdul Hamid II

The researcher and head of the historical and cultural studies department at Regional Studies Center, Dr. Mohammad Abdul Rahman Al-Obaidi issued a new book entitled "Sultan Abdul Hamid II and Pan-Islamism ". The book is divided into four chapters and appendices. It is of medium size and contains (238) pages. It was published by Ashurbanipal Printing House, Baghdad - Iraq.

Al-Obaidi indicated that the book aims to shed light on Sultan Abdul Hamid II's adoption of the policy of Pan-Islamism, which had wide resonance in the Islamic world at the time, in addition to its application at the internal and external levels, and to evaluate the extent of the success achieved by that policy.

The author added that the book dealt, in the first chapter, with the life of Sultan Abdul Hamid II, his assumption of power, and the conditions of the Ottoman Empire. The second chapter was devoted to the topic of Pan-Islamism and the reasons that prompted Sultan Abdul Hamid II to adopt it and its most prominent pioneers, supporters, and opponents. The third chapter included the practical applications of Pan-Islamism at the internal level. While the fourth and final chapter involved the subject of Pan-Islamism and Sultan Abdul Hamid's foreign policy.

Al-Obaidi confirmed that the book counted on a group of sources, foremost of which are Ottoman documents and documents of the British Foreign Office. As well as manuscripts and books in the Turkish language, a large group of books, research, articles, and Arabic and English journals, besides theses and doctoral dissertations.

Seminar on Contemporary Developments in Iranian Society

Regional Studies Center held a seminar by Dr. "Mohammad Abdul-Rahman Al-Obaidi" for the research entitled "Contemporary developments in Iranian society: a historical study" in the presence of the Center's researchers, on Wednesday, July 7, 2021.

Al-Obaidi said that the research aims to study and follow-up the most prominent developments and changes that Iranian society testified during the twentieth century until the present, in various economic, social, cultural, health, and other aspects, and to focus on the nature of these developments at each stage, whether in the monarchy or the republican era.

The researcher added that the importance of the research lies in an attempt to present a new study on the contemporary developments witnessed by Iranian society in the economic, cultural, health, and other aspects, as a new trial to be added to the studies and research related to the contemporary history of Iran.

The researcher concluded by saying that the research was divided into four topics, the first one included the geographical location and demographic structure of Iran, while the second topic dealt with the nature of Iranian society and its demographics. The third topic was devoted to the economic transformation and its impact on Iranian society, the fourth one dealt with the cultural development that Iran witnessed at the beginning of the twentieth century, and the fifth topic was concerned with the progress and development of the health and education sectors and the most prominent transformations that each of them testified in the contemporary history of Iran.

Regional Studies Center at Mosul University Holds its Ninth

International Scientific Conference

Under the patronage of the Minister of Higher Education and Scientific Research, Prof. Dr. Nabil Kazim Abdul-Sahib, with the supervision of the President of Mosul University, Prof. Dr. Qusay Kamal Al-Din Al-Ahmadi, Regional Studies Center held its ninth international scientific conference entitled (Iraq after 2003: the state, society, economy, law, foreign relations: challenges and opportunities), in cooperation with the House of Iraqi Expertise Foundation during the period 27-28 June 2021.

It was electronically in the presence of the Secretary-General of the Iraqi Parliament, Prof. Dr. Sirwan Abdullah Ismail, Chairman of the Supreme Committee of the Conference, and with the participation of professors, researchers and those concerned with the subject of the conference.

The conference aimed to review the reality of the political and economic situation in the Iraqi arena after 2003 and the most important recommendations proposed in this regard. During its sessions, within the political and economic axes, the conference involved topics of great importance: Iraq's return to its Arab and international environment: challenges, and opportunities.

Education retreats between its pivotal role in the development and the responsibilities of economic decline. Towards a new approach in the security dimension of Iraqi-Turkish relations. Political problems and obstacles in Iraq after 2003 and future options. State Building and paths of influence in foreign policy: a case study of Iraq.

The strategic pillars of Iraqi national security; a prospective study. Iraqi parliamentary elections; an approach between the philosophy of democracy and pragmatic mechanisms. Iraqi society; the collapse of controls and openness to the unknown. European Union policy towards Iraq after 2003. Iraq's location in light of the Arab-Israeli peace agreements. The position of the United States of America and Turkey toward the Iraqi situation after 2011 and its reflection on the relationship between the two countries. Iraqi - Saudi relations after 2003 in the political field. Iraqi-Gulf relations after 2003. Iraq's foreign policy between the dynamics of the strategic environment and the effectiveness of aspiring regional powers after 2011.

Iraqi-Qatari relations after 2017. An analytical vision of the economic reality in Iraq; challenges and opportunities. Investing in Iraq after 2003; reality and ambition. The service sector in Iraq after 2003; opportunities, challenges, and ways to advance. Legal aspects of the work of Islamic banks in Iraq. The economics of water security is a path to achieving a green economy in Iraq. Analysis of the trend of the Iraqi banking sector indicators after 2003; reality and premises for reform. Successful strategic leadership practices in achieving administrative creativity.

In conclusion, the conference came out with a set of recommendations included in the papers of the researchers participating in this scientific forum, the most prominent of which is strengthening the concept of citizenship and loyalty (Iraq) for the Iraqi individuals.

Laying firm foundations for Iraq's foreign relations with neighboring countries based on respect for relations, good neighborliness, and interests that serve Iraq first and last. Controlling Iraq's borders with all its neighboring countries in a way that maintains and enhances its national security. Encouraging investment in various service sectors in the country. Creating environmentally friendly projects that maintain water security and achieve a green economy.
